The proposition is by no means a new one. As far back as 1888 Mr. H. C. Parsons ad-vacated some such provision being inserted in the constitution. The object of the re-publicans then in wishing to disfranchise the negroes, a race that solidly supported their party, was that they thought, by eliminating the negro from politics, the whites would then vote on economic and financial issues instead of as one race against anothdicates, the members are those who have, as a rule, advanced some distance in the pathway of life, but when they come together FOR REN on holiday occasions they bring the spirit of the day with them. It is evident that they have an abundance of enthusiasm and they are not ashamed of it. They enjoy living and like to be happy themselves, and make others happy. They exchange New Year greetings in no half hearted HOTE's. way, and if the president, Mr. John Marbury, jr., was not as jovial and cheerful as the other members of the association he would no doubt consider the propriety of LOST AND FOUND ... appointing a sergeant-at-arms to reduce the meeting to the staid level which is called in some bodies parliamentary order.

But the president manages to say all he wants to say and there are lulls in the tide of talk and laughter, which makes it possible for everybody to have a chance to say what is on their minds and so if the most perfect order is not preserved it makes no matter. Everybody is happy and business goes on. It must not be inferred that hess goes on. It must not be inferred that the meetings are disorderly, for such an imputation would be very unjust to the substantial citizens who constitute the membership of this association. They simply carry on the meetings in their own way and acc mplish the purpose of coming together and enjoy each other's society

The attendance of members at the meeting this morning was unusually large, no doubt due in part to the pleasant weather. The president, Mr. Marbury, was in his place and was surrounded by the officers—Mr. Robert Ball, who handles the funds of the association; Mr. J. M. Cutts, who keeps the record of the proceedings of the meetings; Mr. J. A. Wineberger, who is the marshal and J. T. Howard, who writes the official letters. The president always has a pleasant greet-ing at these holiday meetings and in his cheerful vein he says a good word for the year that is closed and bespeaks for the members a happy experience for the new year. His little speech today was in his characteristic style and was listened to with evident satisfaction by the members, who heartily indorsed his words by applause. New members were elected as follows: Chris Dickson, P. M. Dubant and its duties at the White House. The friends lows: Chris Dickson, P. M. Just now amateur oarsmen are speculating on the result of the next meeting of the It promises to be one of the most important gatherings ever held by the followers of the sport. The case of Gray and Curran, who were protested at the last regatta, will come up for settlement. Secretary Fortmeyer and Messrs. Phillips and Stimpson, who were appointed a committee at the last meeting to investigate the charges, will re-port their findings. It is generally conceded that both men will be adjudged professionals. A committee, consisting of Theodore Van Raden of New York, Walter Stimpson of the New England Amateur Rowing Association, F. D. Standish of Detroit, O. P. Schmid of Washington, and H. K. Hinch-man of Philadelphia, have prepared a number of important amendments to the regat-ta rules. These amendments are from the pen of Capt. Van Raden, and will be acted upon at this meeting. They are:
